

ABSTRACT OF DISCLOSURE

A paper discharging apparatus of a printer, including a paper guide member which is movable between first and second positions to stack papers discharged from the paper outlet, on different positions with respect to discharging directions, and a driving unit to selectively move the paper guide member between the first and the second positions.